PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.
CONCEALED FROM PUBLIC EYE.
It may be added that, in considering this subject, the people ought always to keep in view the fact that the government is a contract with the people, and that the people are the only source of power. As the government is a contract with the people, it is the duty of the people to see that the government is kept within the limits of the contract. If the government is to be kept within the limits of the contract, it is the duty of the people to see that the government is kept within the limits of the contract. If the government is to be kept within the limits of the contract, it is the duty of the people to see that the government is kept within the limits of the contract.

Some provision is deemed requisite to correct the evils arising from the long continued absence of commissioned officers. Where it is found that the commission has been vacated, it is the duty of the government to see that the commission is renewed. If the commission is renewed, it is the duty of the government to see that the commission is renewed. If the commission is renewed, it is the duty of the government to see that the commission is renewed.

Regular and punctual communication with the Trans-Mississippi is an object of the highest importance. It is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open. If the communication is kept open, it is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open. If the communication is kept open, it is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open.

The hope last year entertained of an early termination of the war has not been realized. The war has continued, and the government has continued to fight. The government has continued to fight, and the war has continued. The war has continued, and the government has continued to fight.

We have already alluded to the unanimous disposition of Congress to do away with the provision of the Conscription Law permitting persons to put in substitutes. As showing the temper of Congress, as well as what has been done in that regard as also upon other questions, we quote the following from the Senate proceedings on Thursday last:

From the London Post (Government organ) Oct. 31.
It is so manifestly the interest of Great Britain to observe with strictness the obligations arising from neutrality that it is extraordinary the should be more than suspected by the Federal Government of having been induced to violate the laws of neutrality by the use of the word "substitute" in the Conscription Law. The British Government have, in every conceivable manner, short of flagrantly outraging the law of nations, endeavored to aid the Southern Confederacy in its efforts to achieve its independence. They have done this by the use of the word "substitute" in the Conscription Law.

It is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open. If the communication is kept open, it is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open. If the communication is kept open, it is the duty of the government to see that the communication is kept open.
